BG 'Mission' Announced

Goal: $10 Million By '74

By RANDY KETCHAM
Editor

A $10 million long-range development program for the University was announced Saturday by Sumner Canary, president of the University Board of Trustees.

The announcement was made at a meeting in the Ballroom which was attended by about 500 members of the University's Board of Trustees, administration and faculty, and parents of University students.

The program, called "Bowling Green's Mission: Expanding Horizons," is aimed at meeting its goal through support from private sources.

At the meeting, Theodore D. Wakefield, general chairman of the campaign, announced an initial gift of $254,600 from members of the Board of Trustees, Development Council, and Executive Committee of the program.

"These private funds will enable us to do things we can't do with normal state assistance," Charles E. Perry, director of development and assistant to the president, said.

He added that although he was pleased with the state funds, these private funds would enable the University to complement state programs in achieving a greater University.

The University presently receives about 50 per cent of its support from state funds, with the remainder of its operating income coming from student fees, federal assistance, and local funds.

The new program is divided into three phases which will extend over the next eight years.

Phase one, now underway, has a $2 million goal. The second and third phases, which are planned for the 1970's, have goals of $3 million and $5 million, respectively, which are to be met by Dec. 31, 1974.

Mr. & Mrs. Harold Anderson from Maumee are honorary chairmen of the event.

Mrs. Anderson was a member of the University's first graduating class. Her husband is senior partner and general manager of The Anderson's, one of the nation's major grain exporting firms, and was awarded an honorary degree by the University in 1960.

Thirty-two key geographic areas have been formed to facilitate the administration of Phase I. These areas have been set up according to counties (in Ohio) and cities (out of state).

The campaign is now beginning in Seneca County, the first geographic region, and by the early months of 1969 it will have entered the last areas, including San Francisco, Philadelphia, and Ft. Wayne.

An area chairman will be selected to head the campaign in his area and advisory boards of alumni and friends of the University and parents of University students are being developed for each area.

A series of planning meetings, for the benefit of people interested in helping with the campaign, will be held in each area. These meetings will be culminated by an area dinner, which University President William T. Jerome and selected faculty and staff members will attend.

People contacted in these areas will be given the opportunity to make contributions, in cash or pledges, that may be spread over three tax years.

The results of these personal contacts will be announced during a series of three report meetings in each area, with the final one marking the end of activity for that particular area.

The first phase target of $2 million is scheduled to be allotted as follows: library enrichment, $600,000; named professorships, $500,000; University endowment, $300,000; scholarships and fellowships, $200,000; faculty research grants, $150,000; continuing education, $125,000; experimental college program, $75,000; and cultural activities, $50,000.

During this phase, annual giving for alumni and parents has been merged with the program to prevent dual solicitation. Any parent or alumnus making a gift or pledge to the program will also be credited with contributing to the annual alumni or parent giving program.

The second and third phases of the program, which are still in the planning stages, will include, in addition to regular annual giving programs, an investment plan for "living gifts" by interested donors. Continual and increased support will be encouraged from University alumni and friends, parents of students, corporations and foundations during these phases.

"However, unless phase I is successfully completed, phases two and three will be impossible," Mr. Perry said.

Mr. Canary called Saturday's meeting "one of the most important meetings held in connection with Bowling Green in its 56 years of operation." He added that the Board of Trustees had accepted the program "as a sound one."

Dr. Jerome called the program "a significant event in the life of Bowling Green."

"However, to express the mission in dollars is to miss its spirit and purpose," he said. "We are striving for educational excellence that dollars alone cannot assure."

He said that since the program is an educational undertaking, it was designed to be "low pressure, leisurely and fun."

At UAA Symposium

Students Can Question Administrators

University students will have a chance to bring their problems directly to the people in charge of solving them at the Undergraduate Alumni Association's symposium tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Ballroom.

A panel of seven key administrative officials, including University President William T. Jerome, and seven students selected from various aspects of campus life will be present to answer questions from the audience. James E. Hof, director of alumni and University relations, will be the moderator.

Administrative officials on the panel include Dr. Jerome; A. Inghram Milliron, director of auxiliary service; Fayette Paulsen, dean of women; Dr. Karl G. Rahdert, chairman-elect of Faculty Senate; Robert G. Rudd, director of residential services; Paul D. Shepherd, manager of the Union bookstore; and Wallace W. Taylor, Jr., dean of men.

Members of the student panel include Tom Brauen, secretary of the IFC and senior representative to Student Council; Phil Campbell, vice president of the sophomore class; Julie Harter, president of Panel: Randy Ketcham, editor of the B-G News; Dick Kuhlman, a representative from the freshman class; Marty Monnott, secretary of the senior class; and Ed Sewell, vice president of the junior class.

Fred J. Hansen, assistant director of alumni relations, said he hoped for a free exchange of ideas between the audience and the administrative and student panels in an informal atmosphere during the symposium.

Fracas Erupts At SDS Booth

By LARRY FULLERTON
Managing Editor

The Vietnam issue erupted into prominence on campus yesterday afternoon when anti-war literature being passed out at a booth set up by the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) was destroyed.

The material was at a booth set up in the north hallway of the Union.

John Betchik, a sophomore from Willowick, Ohio was at the S.D.S. booth and said several students came up and started discussing the Vietnam war.

The discussion became "emotional" and some of the students began to destroy the literature, Betchik said.

After the literature was destroyed, the booth was closed. By this time, a crowd of about 50 persons had gathered and the discussion moved into the Nest.

An argument erupted between Gary Kovacs, a freshman also from Willowick, who said he had spent 18 months in Viet Nam with the Army's Special Forces, and Betchik and Mark Ederer, a graduate student in psychology.

Both Betchik and Ederer emphasized that the arguments during the discussion were their own opinions and not necessarily that of S.D.S. Ederer said he is not a member of S.D.S.

Election Coverage Set

To assure the best possible coverage of today's elections, the News is extending its deadline until 2 a.m. tomorrow.

Tomorrow's edition will have results of all major state races, including the congressional races from key districts.

The News will also cover important races in other states, with emphasis on the gubernatorial battles in California, Michigan, New York and Georgia.

Lack Of Knowledge

At least 12 members of Student Council showed a critical lack of knowledge of the democratic process and the party system when they proposed a resolution to prohibit party labels from pieces of legislation at the Council meeting Thursday.

The resolution, drawn up by Prout representative Peg Fogt, called for University Party members to cease the designation of "UP member" after their names on a bill.

After a lengthy discussion, it was defeated 16-12 with two abstentions.

The first argument claimed discrimination against non-members. Not so, a person who belongs to a party is usually proud of his membership and tries to promote the party's interests but he isn't anti-non-members.

Anyone can join the UP by paying the membership fee of 50 cents. Proponents of Miss Fogt's resolution said, in the second place, that the party hindered its members representative function.

Untrue, a party is another agent of "the people" in which like thinking people get together to push for common aims. Many people vote for representatives on the basis of party membership.

A third criticism was that the UP divided Council into factions. A dynamic and responsive political system is naturally divided into factions--pressure groups, lobbies, parties, study groups and others.

Finally, parties were said to impair university allegiance. Irrelevant. Student responsiveness is the ultimate goal of student government and this, in itself, works toward the betterment of the university. Parties help facilitate this.

If the non-members of the UP feel they are being discriminated against, why don't they form a party of their own. Then they can put party designation after their names on Council legislation.

GUEST COLUMN

Supports U.S. Position

It is timely for someone to speak out for the vast majority of the people of this country who support the position of the United States Government in Viet Nam. We have far too many "protest meetings," and the press all too often applies the "bleeding heart" approach to the news.

Even here on campus this trend is shown. For example, in reporting the ROTC parade last spring, the B-G News gave front-page coverage to the two disruptive individuals who picketed the parade and put the parade itself on page seven.

There were several points which establish that the vast majority of the people support President Johnson's position. Last summer in the primaries, not one "dove" beat a "hawk" in a Congressional race. If Governor Hatfield of Oregon does not win his bid for the Senate, this issue alone will defeat him. Congress continues to appropriate funds for the military by large margins, and the Tonkin Bay Resolution was almost unanimous.

Congressmen report that the majority of their constituents do not favor an empty withdrawal. In fact, a very responsible segment of the Republican Party charges that President Johnson has not gone far enough.

It should not be implied that war is right, or fair, or moral. Those who have been involved in war know that it is no Sunday School picnic. War is HELL. There are always losses--to the combatants and to non-combatants and in destruction of property. But there are times when the situation must be rationalized. We must decide how far we will go.

Thank God there have been men in the past, and there are men today, who are willing to take the risks necessary to preserve our way of life--even to the extent of conducting a war. The protestors must remember that without these men there would be no society wherein they could protest and demonstrate.

If we withdraw from enough Viet Nams, and the entire world falls to Communism, then there would be no place for demonstrators to parade outside University football stadiums.

Two things are different about this war in Viet Nam, and an understanding of these differences will clarify some of the issues. First, there is the "undeclared" aspect of this war. This is a bad situation as it disturbs people's attitudes and leads to the claim that the war is "illegal" and "immoral." The legality of the administration's position has been outlined in testimony before Congressional Committees several times, one as recently as May 9, 1966 by Secretary Rusk.

It is entirely possible that we may never again have a "declared" war; but we will probably not outlaw war as it seems to be one of man's human failings. The second new idea is that war has become a theatrical performance and that missions must be conducted under the eye of direct news reporting and cameras. This is certainly not the way to conduct a war as the purpose of a mission should never be to make news copy.

We need constructive criticism in our democratic society. But we do not need violations of law and breaches of the civil peace. These things certainly do not provide any moral support to the soldiers, marines, sailors, and airmen who are fighting the war. All citizens are urged to show their support for the general conduct of the military action, all the while praying that some early and honorable solution can be found by those public officials whom we have elected and appointed to the positions of responsibility where the real decisions have to be made.

Let us stop giving high priority in the news media, the classrooms, and our daily lives to those who would have us withdraw--for whatever reason they urge--lest we allow the continued advance of Communism--the very thing which will destroy our entire way of life.

Professor of Bus. Ad.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Painters' Arrival Forces Coeds Out

The date--18 October, Tuesday; the time--7:30 a.m.; the place--the north end of McDonald East, fourth floor; the project--to remove self and the bulk of one's possessions from your dorm room; the reason--so that the nine-member painting team of BGSU could repaint the room. These are the facts.

The lucky (?) coeds of McDonald Quadrangle have been granted the unequivocal privilege of being displaced for a day to facilitate the replastering and repainting of their "humble abodes." This renovating project will proceed up one side of the hall and down the other until, alas, the undertaking is completed.

We are aware, that in the course of Life, certain inconveniences must be endured, but this instance seems a bit unnecessary. We are also aware of the following:

1) other dorms have been repainted while classes were in session and that classrooms, offices, etc., also require the talents of the paint squad;

2) that the small print of the Housing Agreement, which we must sign if under 21, indicates the University's right "to inspect, repair, or otherwise maintain all student rooms at any time during the school year;" and

3) that females have a tendency to occupy an appreciable amount of space with their "bare necessities," thus, within the confines of our chambers, any further condensation of possessions is quite a feat.

However, we are most aware of the interruption to an atmosphere supposedly conducive to study and of the physical discomfort resulting from inhalation of lingering paint vapors (the lines at the Health Center are long enough as it is) and lack of sleep (due to the time required to dismantel and reassemble our rooms and the early hour by which we must comply with the displacement injunction).

It is gratifying to see, use, and enjoy the additions and improvements to our campus which are partially financed by the fees and taxes which we and our parents pay. However, despite the fact that this is "any time during the school year," we question the purpose of this decision at this time. With the enlarged campus and enlarged enrollment, why can't the nine-member paint team be increased so dorms, especially, could be beautified during holiday recesses?

These master painters are doing a remarkable job under the circumstances; however, a better job, under safer conditions (for the men and our possessions) and without interruption to our studying, could be done during a recess period.

Signed by the following residents of McDonald East and North: Dawn McConnell, Vickie Pope, Jan Finnarn, Trish Streep, Jackie Brennan, Darlene Dietrick, Martha Beeker, Marianne Kalina, Donna Baird, Lynn Murphy, Marilyn Rismiller, and Carol Weber.

Get A Bike!

As compared to Ohio University, Ohio State, and large numbers of other Universities, campus parking here, for both students and faculty, is unusually abundant. Since I live a substantial distance from the campus, ride a bicycle the year around in fair and foul weather, and almost never park in any area forbidden to students, it should be evident that I'm not defending a vested parking interest. Mr. Chuck Miller (Let the Faculty Walk) and others who feel equally outraged need to expand their thinking.

When people now on the faculty were students, most of them had to walk in deference to preferred parking spots for their professors. Do you think it's fair now to reverse the rules and give students the preference? In any case both students and taxpayers spend large sums here, which would be largely wasted without a competent faculty.

University officials do their utmost to get the best staff possible with available funds, but how would the search for new talent and efforts to retain our most competent instructors fare if the word got around that our students get the preferred parking areas? Wouldn't this be rightly interpreted as evidence that this University was dominated by students, some of such a dubious level of maturity as to have engaged in panty raids and the wonton smashing of dormitory windows?

We of the bicycle persuasion, both students and faculty, save almost as much time as those who come motorized, and we benefit from the exercise. We also feel better, knowing that people seldom get killed by bicycles. A few days ago two student were permanently removed from one of my classes by a fatal car accident.

At various times death by automobile has come to a number of our students and even to a President of the University, but I have yet to hear of a student or staff member who died from losing control of bicycle. I urge both students and faculty to take note that bicycles produce no toxic exhaust fumes and that, if more of us used bicycles, the lives of pedestrians as well as cyclists would be in less danger.

Party Signature Causes Serious Split In Council

Viet Nam Objectors Stage Peace March

By JACK HARTMAN
Editorial Page Editor

Several members of Student Council crusaded against discrimination and antagonism with in Council at the meeting Thursday night.

In the end, they created more of what they were crusading against and forced the most serious split within Council to date.

It started during the discussion of a constitutional amendment to lower the grade requirement for student government officeholders.

"Is 'University Party (UP) member' supposed to be part of the signature of a person at the bottom of the bill?" asked Peg Fogt, Prout representative.

She answered her own question, "No, it shouldn't be."

Her comments were ruled irrelevant to the discussion by acting chairman Dick Seaman, Council vice president, so she waited until after the discussion was concluded.

In the meantime, she drew up a hastily-written resolution that called for the elimination of the practice of including "UP member" in the signature. Elaine Schwarzenberg, Harshman "C" representative seconded it.

"You are discriminated against, if you are not a member," she claimed. "It doesn't make you any better."

"There's no discrimination, anybody can join," a party member shot back. "The party should get credit."

Tom Hennings, junior representative said that the designation goes against the idea of Student Council working for the students. Hennings was a party member during last spring's election.

"We don't discriminate," stated UP chairman Don Stricker. "Peg, all you do is pay 50 cents and you're in," he chided. She replied, "Thanks."

Miss Schwarzenburg pointed out that the party has created factions.

"Factions are part of the political system," answered Jon Wierwill, Council treasurer.

Tom Parrish, sophomore representative, countered with, "It's who you represent not what party that is important."

Tom Brauen, senior representative, added, "Let's eliminate an irritant which isn't necessary."

Rick Helwig, junior president, ended the debate (time ran out): "University allegiance is our highest goal; let's not lower it."

A UP member, choked off by the debate limit, confided after the meeting that he planned to say the following in reply to Helwig:

"Do you mean lower it to the level of the students as represented by a party?"

The amendment was defeated by a close vote of 12 for, 16 against and 2 abstentions.

Seaman, who manned "The Chair" for ailing Student Body President Tom Liber, did an especially effective job of maintaining neutrality and keeping order.

In his third year on Council, Seaman is normally a vigorous and highly-opinionated participant in the discussion process.

5 Escape Harm In Plane Crash

Five persons escaped injury when their single engine Mooney airplane crashed at the University airport Saturday about 9 a.m.

About $5,000 damage was done to the plane when the landing gear collapsed on landing. The pilot, from Michigan, apparently did not realize that the plane was near the ground because of the bad weather.

About 20 pickets, members of the Bowling Green Committee for a Reasonable Settlement in Viet Nam, paraded in front of the stadium Saturday before and during the football game.

In addition to the demonstrators, other members passed out literature calling for an end to the Viet Nam war.

Those participating included members of the Bowling Green community.

Co-chairmen of the group are William R. Gibbon, Dr. Grover C. Platt, professor of history, and Jon Wierwill, a junior from Archbold.

The demonstration was held just before the elections because the purposes, cost, morality and possible consequences of the Viet Nam war have not been discussed in campaigns in most parts of the country, Mr. Gibbon said.

"A war that costs us an average of 100 American lives each week and $2 billion a month should be seriously discussed and considered at election time. But most candidates are trying to ignore the question, even when we may be on the verge of triggering a nuclear World War III," he added.

"We were exercising our right and duty to oppose a war that violates the U.S. Constitution, the United Nations Charter, the 1954 Geneva Accords and the treaty of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), Dr. Platt said.

"There are those who object to demonstrations of any kind, but we feel every legal and peaceful means must be used to arouse the nation's conscience to the fact that our government has sent nearly 400,000 Americans 6,000 miles across the world to fight and die in a civil war among the Vietnamese people," he said.

The demonstrators called for an immediate cease-fire, not, they said, to aid the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese, but to save American lives and to restore respect for this country in the eyes of most of the world's nations.

Williams, Albee Plays Scheduled

One-act plays by Tennessee Williams and Edward Albee will be produced in the University's Joe E. Brown Theatre Nov. 11.

Williams' "The Long Good-Bye" and "Talk To Me Like the Rain" and Albee's "Zoo Story" will be presented in the program, which will start at 8:15 p.m.

Brenda Johnson, Yvonne Arcidiacono, Jeff Fuleki, Kenneth Eckhart III, John Homm, Clifford Mahaney Jr. and Jack Slivika will play major roles in "The Long Good-Bye," which concerns the memories of a man who is being evicted from his one-room apartment.

Fast-talking your parents is the hard way to get to Britain.

Fact-talk instead.

Tell them exactly what your trip will cost. Our free booklets help you calculate it.

One lists prices of organized student tours. They start around $650. If you want to travel on your own and take potluck on meeting people—which may be the most fun of all—add things up for yourself.

Start with a charter flight if your school has one. Or see our booklet on group flights, student ships, and the bargain airline.

Add low costs for getting around Britain. Our booklets tell you about 3¢-per-mile buses and the rail-and-boat pass that takes you up to 1,000 miles for $30. Consider hiking too. Wordsworth did.

Multiply the number of your nights in Britain by cost of bed and breakfast or a room in a college residence hall. If you're hiking or biking, count on about 70¢ for youth hostels. At this rate you may be able to stay all summer.

Allow about $1 a meal in London, less in the country. The booklets say which restaurants and pubs are popular with convivial British students.

And the booklets mention the fantastically low cost of concerts and plays in Britain. You can sit in "the gods"—galleries up near Heaven—for 75¢. A lot of outdoor entertainment, like concerts and folk-singing, is free.

Clip the coupon. Add everything up. And tell your parents you can spend this summer in Britain for about what it costs to hang around the house.

Freshman Taken For A 'Ride'

By ROSEMARY KOVACS
and JUDY LAKE
Staff Writers

All two freshman students wanted to do Friday was catch a ride home to Lima. They hadn't quite planned to get involved with a trio of alleged auto thieves.

But freshmen Michael Wandell and Michael Wiesenmayer did.

About 4:30 Friday the freshmen started hitchhiking home to Lima. They were picked up near Founders by a trio: two "hoody women and a guy" in an "old battered car," according to Wandell.

The three turned out to be a Michigan man and women who had left a dramatic path behind them.

According to reports, Robert Rohrbaugh, 20, Ronald Patrick, 17, and Harold Patrick, 20, all of Michigan, picked up three hitchhikers near Stockbridge, Mich., about 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Patrick was forced to get in the back seat with the two women who threatened him with a knife and ordered him to continue driving.

When the car stopped at a gas station at the west end of the Maumee-Perrysburg bridge, the three original occupants of the car jumped out and summoned police. The trio meanwhile fled in the auto into Wood County.

That's where the two Michaels came in.

"We were hitchhiking home when this old car stopped and the driver asked us if we knew the way to Lima," Wandell said. "Then they asked us if we wanted to ride along, so we did."

Everything went well until they passed through Portage, when the Wood County Sheriff started following us because of the exhaust system. It was pretty bad."

But then a highway patrol roadblock stopped the car beyond Portage near Jerry City Road.

"The guy told us to 'play it cool' and get out and hold our hands over our heads," Wandell said.

"The police frisked us and when we told them who we were, they let us go."

"The police then took us to Findlay and told us we probably could get a ride home from there. They did tell us to watch who we got a ride with, but that was all.

"Our parents weren't too upset. They just told us to be more careful.

"I wasn't really scared," Wendell said. "When the police car started following us, I thought to myself that it would be kind of neat. Maybe they were wanted by the police."

Tomorrow Date For Blood Gifts

Officers of Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, announced yesterday a blood drive will be conducted on campus tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the lobby of Memorial Hall.

They said anyone may give blood who desires to, but a student under 21 years of age must have parental permission to do so.

Persons donating blood are asked to make an appointment through the Union Activities Office, ext. 2231. Walk-ins will be accepted, they said.

This year's quota is 150 pints. If this quota is met, the donor and anyone in his immediate family, will be eligible for free blood transfusions anywhere in the United States, if needed, the officers said.

"Afterwards, when I began thinking about it, I got scared," Wendell said.

And even after that experience, the two freshmen continued their hitching home. "We got a ride later with another guy. His gas line broke, but finally we made it."

Now they're back at Bowling Green, with quite a tale to tell.

Campus Calendar

New identification cards are available in Room 120 University Hall for most persons who had pictures taken on or before Oct. 21.

These cards may be obtained at the time noted below or will be sent if a self-addressed, stamped, envelope is provided.

In addition, I.D. cards for upperclassmen will continue to be validated when a fees receipt is shown up to Thanksgiving recess.

It is requested that freshman or transfer students who have never had I.D. pictures taken and anyone who has been notified that it is necessary to have another picture taken, do this before Nov. 11.

After this date the library and the athletic ticket office will only accept a new card or a validated one as proper identification. The I.D. lab will be open today through Friday, 3 to 5 p.m.

During the ensuing discussion, the participants hurled facts, arguments and insults at one another.

One of the anti-war proponents said "I know war is hell, but I've never experienced it."

Kovacs said that while he didn't want to be in Viet Nam, he would go back if he had to.

The argument was broken-up by the arrival of Officer Melvin Jones of the University police department. About 50 persons had gathered by this time, listening to the discussion and sometimes participating.

Betchik said material at the booth also included literature on university reform, poverty, and S.D.S. at both the campus and national level.

Charles Tabasko, S.D.S. executive secretary, said he thinks the whole incident was sparked by someone who he thinks is not connected with the University and who would not reveal his name.

Later in the afternoon, an unidentified man came to the News office and requested that neither his picture nor his name be used in the paper. He would not reveal his name.

Kickers Beaten By OU Rally

By ARMAS BRUCKNER
Assistant Sports Editor

It was like the beginning of the season again.

The Falcon kickers, who have been coming on strong with three wins in their last four decisions, Saturday looked like the "booters" who dropped their first three games of the season.

Ohio University, who came into the game riding a five-game losing streak, broke out of its slump to hand visiting BG a 3-1 loss.

The Bobcats bolstered their record to 4-5 while the Falcons dropped to 3-5-1, thereby ruining their chances for a winning season.

But if the victor was determined by "minutes in the lead," the outcome would have been a different story.

The Falcons scored first in the raining, sleeting, cold Athens weather, with junior Orest Wolynec sinking a shot in the early moments of the first quarter.

Until the fourth quarter, the BG defense made the one-goal lead stand.

Harry Kollias, OU sophomore, finally found the mark, "and that tying goal opened the door for the Bobcats," Falcon soccer coach Mickey Cochrane said.

OU continued to pick up momentum and followed with another score to put them in the lead for the first time in the game. The Bobcats final tally came late in the fourth period. Coach Cochrane described the Falcons lack of scoring power as "a puzzlement."

"We played well in the first half," Cochrane said, "but we just couldn't get anything going."

"OU definitely played better than we did in the second half. We played strictly defense."

Cochrane admitted if the Falcons would have held on to their 1-0 lead for a victory, it would have been "fortunate." BG had only 15 shots at the Bobcat goal, while OU bombarded Falcon goalie Bob Hall with 23 shots.

In fact, if it weren't for a break, the Falcons could well have been shut out.

When Wolynec took his point-scoring shot, BG's Pete Farrell ran into the OU goalie, who caught the ball and fell into the goal.

The Falcon lineup had been revised slightly since the 2-1 win over Kent State last week, with leading scorer Guenter Herold and Dean Forsberg moving up to the front line. But things didn't jell.

"OU deserved the win," was all Cochrane could say.

The Falcons last game will be Saturday, when highly-rated Wooster College invades Bowling Green. A win would lift the Falcons a game under the .500 mark--an improvement over last year's 2-4-2 record.

Akron, who was leading the league with an undefeated record, dropped a 1-0 decision to Pitt.

Harriers 5th In MAC Title Meet

The Bowling Green cross country team finished a disappointing fifth Saturday in the Mid-American Conference championship meet in Toledo.

As expected, Western Michigan took first place honors, collecting 34 points, while Miami captured second place with 47 points, though Miami's Andy Schramm upset Kent State's Sammy Bair in the individual race.

Behind Western and Miami were the harriers from Ohio University, with 77 points, Kent State, with 96 points, and the Falcons, who finished with 112 points. The University of Toledo and Marshall University rounded out the field.

For the second straight week, the Falcons' cross country and track ace, Bob Parks, finished well back in the pack. Saturday, he finished 15th in the six-mile race, slightly higher than his 17th place finish in the All-Ohio championships a week ago. Last year, Parks came in 12th in the MAC championships.

The second place finish for Bair was his first of the year, and came in rather convincing style. Schramm, the 1963 MAC cross country champ, finished strong, and outdistanced the Flashers' star by more than 50 yards.

Paul Talkington, a sophomore who has shown promise to develop into a future star for the Falcons, finished 18th in the meet, marking the first time this season Dan Sekerak hasn't finished second to Parks in the race for BG honors. Sekerak crossed the finish line in 23rd place, well behind Talkington.

Jim Hanneken, another sophomore who has shown signs of becoming an outstanding performer, captured 27th place, while Bob Knoll finished 29th, to round out the top five Bowling Green runners.

The next meet for the Falcon harriers will be this Saturday when they travel to Chicago to compete in the Central Collegiate championships. Bowling Green finished in sixth place at the Central Collegiate last year.

Kaat Signs Fat Pact With Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)--Pitcher Jim Kaat signed yesterday with the Minnesota Twins for a figure reported to be around the $50,000 mark--the highest salary for a hurler in the history of the team.

The new contract came in the form of a birthday present for Kaat, who was 27 yesterday.

The lefthander won 25 games this year--tops in the American League and the most ever won by a Minnesota pitcher. Kaat also worked the most innings and had the most complete games in the league.

The previous highest priced pitcher for the Twins was Camilo Pascual, who received about $46,000 two years ago. Only slugger Harmon Killebrew has been paid more by the Twins. He has been as high as $60,000.

Marshall Gets Snow Job

Falcons Recover For 14-6 Verdict

By TOM HINE
Assistant Sports Editor

If nothing else, Saturday's football game against Marshall proved two things:

First, even on Dad's Day and even when Bowling Green wins by a 14-6 score, it's a pretty rugged task to sit through two hours of 34 degree temperature and cold, wet snow.

And second, P.J. Nyitray is human.

Nyitray, who two short weeks ago was just another name on the 57-man BG roster, has been transformed into the "People's Choice" via his outstanding performances against Miami and Marshall.

Nyitray himself, however, isn't quite as positive as some of his fans that he deserves the super hero status he's been receiving lately.

He's usually the first to acknowledge that he's made a mistake, as he did while sitting in the locker room after the game.

"I threw some pretty bad passes in the second half," the 180-pound sophomore said.

Asked if the weather conditions had anything to do with his efficiency, Nyitray shook his head. "It was pretty darn cold out there, but the weather didn't hurt my accuracy--I just threw lousy."

Maybe so, but there are probably quite a few quarterbacks floating around who wish they could be throwing poorly and coming up with results as good as Nyitray's have been.

For the record, Nyitray threw 23 times, completed 10 for 167 yards and a touchdown.

Considering several other passes were dropped in the slippery surroundings, it really can't be considered a bad day's work.

But from the way the game started, it looked as if it might be strictly a running affair.

BG received the opening kickoff, and on the first play, fullback Ed Coletti reeled off a 20-yard run, only to fumble on the 31-yard line. With quarterback Jim Gilbert alternating backs Mickey Jackson and Andy Socha, the Big Green moved the distance in 10 plays, all runs.

The score came on a four-yard sweep around left end by Jackson with 8:50 to go in the first period. The extra point attempt was blocked by Chuck Burley, holding the Marshall lead to 6-0.

After trading punts, the Falcons found themselves in possession of the ball on their own 15 with just over four minutes remaining in the quarter. It was at this point the game's first pass was thrown, a Nyitray to Ed Jones toss that gave BG a first down on the 32.

The quarter ended with the Falcons on Marshall's 38, but they didn't stay there long once the second quarter was underway.

On a second and 10 situation, Nyitray sent halfback Dave Cranmer down the right sidelines, and lofted the bomb. Cranmer managed to wrestle the ball away from a Marshall defensive back on the five, then dove into the corner of the end zone for the touchdown. Jim Perry's boot made the score 7-6.

From there, the game was generally rather uninspiring until the final minutes of play, when once again BG managed to get its offense rolling.

Starting on their own 49-yard line, the Falcons moved to the Marshall 17 in one quick play, as Nyitray and end Jones connected on a 32-yard pass.

Moments later, confronted with a fourth and one decision on the eight, coach Bob Gibson sent Russ Jacques in to handle the quarterbacking controls.

"I felt Jacques could run the fullback-quarterback options a little better," explained Gibson after the game.

Jacques proved him right by sneaking around the right side for two yards and the first down. Fullback Chuck Radich then ran three times in a row, and the last time he scored with 58 seconds remaining from a yard out. ***

Among the spectators Saturday was ex-Falcons star Jerry Jones, currently employed with another crew of Falcons, the Atlanta variety of the National Football League.

"We (Atlanta) had a bye this weekend, so I flew home to Dayton, then drove here to see the game," explained Jones.

Concerning the Bowling Green-Marshall game, Jones felt the Falcons "looked good--they hit hard and to me, at least, showed signs of a good, solid team."

Western Michigan's Bill Doolittle joined Kahlil Gibran as a prophet Saturday when his Broncos posted a share of the Mid-American Conference championship with a 20-13 victory over Ohio University.

Meanwhile, Miami coach Bo Schembechler must have felt like the master of ceremonies who forget his ticket as his Redskins were forced to settle for a MAC title tie for the second time in two years, by whipping Toledo, 24-12, in a night game. In both seasons Miami easily handled the co-titlist in regular-season play.

Last year BG tied with Miami, though losing 23-7 to Schembechler's crew. This season Miami humiliated Western 26-7; but lost to BG 17-14 last week in one of the season's big upsets.

The affable Doolittle said in pre-season commentary: "We'll win the league championship. We have a good team, though there are a lot of good teams in this league. But I predict we'll win this thing. I just think I'm saying what a lot of the coaches are thinking."

Doolittle was right, but just barely.

Western won its five league games by a total of 19 points. It beat BG, 16-14; Kent, 23-20; Toledo, 14-13; Marshall, 35-29; and OU, 20-13.

Saturday, it was the crunching running of sophomore fullback Tim Majerle who picked up the slack lost from Western's fine air game when snow and a slippery field negated the pass factor.

Majerle scored the first and third Western touchdowns, the last giving WM a 20-6 lead in the third quarter. OU rallied for a final-quarter touchdown, but was stopped by the clock and the Broncos' defense in a bid for another score.

Majerle gained 205 yards in 45 carries and his TD runs were of one and eight yards. Western led at half, 13-6.

In Toledo, it was too much Bruce Matte and Al Moore for the yardstick-struck Rockets.

Matte passed for one touchdown and scored another. Moore put the game into the decided category with a 70-yard trip to Toledo's end-zone in the third quarter.

He also kicked a field goal and three extra points to account for 12 of Miami's points.

On four occasions Toledo was stopped inside Miami's 40-yard line on fourth-down situations. On each occasion a measurement was required and the Rockets were inches short on each.

Toledo quarterback John Schneider had a pass intercepted by Miami's Wayne Warden when the Rocket quarterback tried a short toss to Henry Burch from the 'Skin four-yard line.

It came in the final quarter with the score 24-12 and proved the death knell for the TU II, which has now lost five straight after winning two of its first three games.

"We knew Western had won its game and we had to win if we were going to get some of that title," Schembechler said. "So we went out and did a job, though Toledo was gunning for us."

Schembechler refused to comment on whether he thought Miami was a better team than Western Michigan.
